Riverland Water helps gymnasts reach new heights

Riverland Water will donate more than $7000 to help budding gymnasts at Berri District Youth Club follow their dreams.

The money was raised at Riverland Water's Golf Day, an annual event which highlights the joint venture of TRILITY and AMP Capital's commitment to community development activities in the region.

Merv Peacock, Chairman of the Riverland Water Board, said the venture has contributed more than $30,000 to the community over the past four years.

"Each year we pick a different group or organisation to support and we're always thrilled to see the difference our donations make," Mr Peacock said.

"In 2013, we supported the Berri Hospital and in 2014 we gave a donation to the Riverland Men's Shed. This year, we're proud to help gymnasts achieve their goals."

Berri District Youth Club Secretary and Head Coach Jane McFarlane said the money would be used to buy an air track inflatable training and tumbling mat.

"It's used in gymnastics to help boost overall skills and will become a key aspect of training, taking our gymnasts to the next level," Ms McFarlane said.

"We were blown away by how much Riverland Water raised. The air track will be a huge asset and we're very grateful to Riverland Water."

The Club has 200 members, including 16 who competed at the prestigious 2015 World Gymnaestrada in Helsinki, Finland, in July.

TRILITY Managing Director and Riverland Water Board member Francois Gouws said: "the golf day has proved a huge success and great fundraiser, which also helps strengthen our relationships between all stakeholders".

Riverland Water will present the club with a $7000 cheque on November 10.

Riverland Water operates 10 water treatments plants in regional South Australia as part of SA Water's Rural South Australian Water Filtration Project. Riverland Water is 50 per cent owned by the AMP Capital Community Infrastructure Fund and 50 per cent by TRILITY. TRILITY also carries out the ongoing operations and maintenance of these plants. Located primarily on the banks of the River Murray, the plants serve approximately 150,000 people in more than 90 communities.

AMP Capital Community Infrastructure Fund

The AMP Capital Community Infrastructure Fund provides investors with the opportunity for stable, long-term returns through the investment in an unlisted portfolio of high quality, PPP-style social infrastructure assets in Australia and New Zealand. The fund focuses on social infrastructure PPP assets within education, water, health, justice, defence, community housing, recreational facilities, transport and other social infrastructure sectors where income from the assets is primarily derived from long-term, CPI-linked concession arrangements with government entities.
